Cairo Is Silent On Suez Plans

West Big Three, Norway Agree

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Feb. 15 (AP)—The Western Big Three and Norway were reported agreed today on a temporary arrangement for use of the Suez Canal but so far have met silence and resistance in Cairo.

This was reported by an authoritative source who is familiar with the negotiations but who would not permit identification. He said also that U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld would be requested to go to Cairo and seek an agreement with President Nasser.

Spokesmen for the United States and Norway confirmed that negotiations are in progress but said it is too early to speak of an agreement.

Norway is working closely with the Big Three powers because of her role as one of the major users of the Suez.

The authoritative source, however, said the United States, Britain, France and Norway have agreed on the following idea for an interim arrangement:

1. All ships, no matter what flag, will have freedom of passage through the Suez Canal when it is opened.

2. Tolls will be paid into a neutral account, such as the International Bank, with some part of the receipts to go to Egypt for operating purposes.

The vital waterway, blocked by wrecks when Britain and France invaded Egypt last fall, is expected to be opened to light shipping early in March. Britain and France have been pressing Hammarskjöld for an interim arrangement before the canal is reopened.

"Supervisory failure to make proper inspections for accumulations of explosive methane gas, a short circuiting of the ventilation system and the use of mining machinery in nonpermissible condition."

The mine, the No. 34 Pocahontas, is classed extremely gassy. The explosion was the worst mine disaster in the nation since the West Frankfort, Ill., explosion in 1951 taking 119 lives.

The state of West Virginia had investigated the explosion because, while the mine lies under both Virginia and West Virginia, its entrance is in the latter state.

Charles Ferguson, director of the union's safety division, who participated in the investigations, was quoted by the mine newspaper as saying the mine releases an average 3½ million cubic feet of methane gas daily. He said gas from the section where the explosion occurred "hisssed audibly as it pushed out of the coal."

The union newspaper said the investigations indicated "the only thing that prevented a worse disaster was the fact that the mine appeared to have been well rock-dusted and the unaffected sections of the mine were on separate splits of air—this apparently prevented the methane explosion from setting off a series of coal dust explosions that could have killed every man in the mine at the time."

Ex-Convict Shoots Stepson

CHICAGO, Feb. 15 (AP)—Police said a 29-year-old ex-convict, angered by a "dare to shoot" challenge today shot and killed his 20-year-old stepson.

Held without charge is Dennis Farrell, 29.

Slain was Richard Hardt, 20, son of Mrs. Inez Farrell, 44, by a previous marriage.

Police said Farrell told the following story:

Farrell and his wife were estranged and he appeared at the Hardt home seeking her in an effort at reconciliation.

The stepson refused to tell him Mrs. Farrell's whereabouts, and Farrell threatened him with a revolver.

The stepson then said: "Let's go outside and see if you use that thing."

Outdoors, Farrell fired a round into the ground, and the stepson then said, "Go ahead and shoot me."

Farrell fired twice at Hardt, fatally wounding him.

Police said Farrell related he shot the youth because he was angered by the dare and by his wife's absence.

Sen. Ervin, Brownell In Word Tiff

Solon Opposes Plan For Civil Rights Bill At Senate Hearing

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Peppery exchanges between Atty. Gen. Brownell and Sen. Ervin (D-NC) today marked a Senate hearing on civil rights legislation.

Ervin contended the Eisenhower administration had failed to show any need for the legislation it proposes. Brownell, in response, promised to submit a list of criminal prosecutions for civil rights violations which he said probably would "run into the hundreds."

The Eisenhower administration wants authority, among other things, for the attorney general to handle such cases in the civil courts, through injunction proceedings.

Spearheads Opposition

Ervin, spearheading Southern opposition to the administration program, argued that Brownell had failed to show "any specific conditions" warranting enactment of what he called such a "drastic remedy."

The exchange took place at a Senate Judiciary subcommittee hearing that developed into a sparring match between the two lawyers. Brownell is a product of Yale Law School, class of '27, and Ervin took his law degree at Harvard in '22.

"I'd have to grade you zero on that," Brownell told Ervin at one point during the argument.

"If we're going in for grading," replied Ervin, a former member of the North Carolina Board of Law Examiners. "I'd say you were 99 and 99-100 per cent wrong on that."

Accused Of Dodging

Ervin frequently accused the attorney general of dodging his questions.

The attorney general said that over the years, and in recent years too, "there have been a great many violations of the civil rights of our citizens," such as the right to vote.

Pressed for examples, Brownell snapped that he couldn't be expected to "turn myself into an FBI." He said he would submit court records of criminal prosecutions of the type the civil rights legislation is designed to deal with.

U.S. Population Hits 170 Million

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—At 51 seconds past 11:01 a. m. EST today a white light flashed on an elaborate electrical chart to indicate the estimated population of the United States had reached 170 million.

Twelve seconds later, the figure on the big sign in the lobby of the Commerce Department moved on to 170,000,001. It is expected to reach 200 million in 10 years or less.

Man, 105, Finally Finds Right Woman

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Feb. 15 (AP)—John Henry King, who never has been married before, and Mrs. Fannie Excell, a widow are to be married soon. They met as fellow patients in a hospital. King is 105 and the bride-to-be is 87.

"At last I have found the right woman," he said.

Hey, That's Gonna Hurt!

Tears well up in the eyes of Rocky and Dane Snoko, 2-year-old twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Snoko, of Denver, Colo., when they see the big rabies inoculation needle which will be jabbed into their pet dog, Bullet, at a veterinary hospital.

Clues Are Wiped Out By Clinton Dynamite Blast

CLINTON, Tenn., Feb. 15 (AP)—The terrific force of a dynamite explosion in the Negro section of racially torn Clinton last night literally obliterated clues upon which to work, police said today.

A restaurant was wrecked, window panes were shattered in more than a score of homes, and a Negro woman and baby were injured slightly. Officers said they have made no arrests.

The blast was the eighth and most destructive in a series that has been set off in Clinton and environs since last fall when 12 Negro students were admitted to Clinton High School under federal court mandate. It was the first to cause injuries or appreciable damage.

Negro patrons of the restaurant said they saw a white man drive up, leave a suitcase on a concrete slab across the street, strike a match, jump back into his car and speed away.

A few seconds later the explosion went off with a roar that police said shook most of this town of 4,000 population.

"The explosion, like all the others, shattered all traces of the suitcase or anything else that might give us a lead to work on," Police Chief Francis Moore said. Moore said there was no doubt the dynamiting was related to integration of previously all-white Clinton High. The school was the first state-supported secondary school in Tennessee to admit Negroes.

"We didn't have any dynamiting here before the Negroes were admitted to the school," said Moore who is also a member of the Anderson County School Board. He estimated 10 to 12 sticks of dynamite were used.

Windowpanes were broken in at least 20 houses occupied by Negroes. Some also were shattered in the dwellings of white persons near the scene of the blast. Two automobiles owned by Negroes were damaged.

History Society Would Incorporate

MONROVIA, Liberia, Feb. 15 (AP)—An Afro-American Historical and Cultural Society of West Africa, the Caribbean and the United States would be incorporated under a bill pending in Liberia's Legislature. Monrovia would be the organization's headquarters. It would have branches in Ghana (Gold Coast), Nigeria, Sierra Leone, Haiti, Jamaica and the United States.

Man Wants Back In Jail So He Can Learn Trade

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—A 28-year-old man who learned one trade while serving a sentence in the House of Correction, asked the judge to send him back so he can learn another.

The man explained to Magistrate Linwood G. Koger in Northwest Police Court that he learned the construction trade during his previous visit in jail.

But bad weather has made construction jobs hard to get, he explained, and he would like to go back to the House of Correction so he can learn an indoor trade—tailoring—this time.

Magistrate Koger explained he could not jail a man unless he has been charged with some offense. The man hadn't and was last seen trying to talk a desk sergeant into charging him with vagrancy.

Texan Sees No Oil Crisis

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Ernest O. Thompson, member of the Texas Railroad Commission, said today he sees no crisis in getting oil to Western Europe.

"It looks to me like the crisis has been melting away," he said, expressing doubt the situation ever was as serious as pictured. Thompson said he thinks Texas has been producing all the oil the evidence showed was needed.

But he said, "anything the President asks for in the form of national security will be answered immediately up to the extent of our pipeline capacity."

Thompson, for 25 years a member of the commission which regulates oil flow in Texas, biggest oil producing state of the union, appeared before the House Commerce Committee.

Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn of Texas, in a rare appearance before a committee, introduced Thompson. Rayburn told the committee "In my humble opinion he knows more about oil than any man in the world. He speaks with frankness. He makes no statement he cannot back up."

Sen. Johnson (D-Tex) and Mrs. Johnson came in among spectators and were recognized by the committee.

Financed By Males

CAIRO, Feb. 15 (AP)—Egypt's Red Crescent Society (equivalent of the Red Cross) has ruled women members must attend strictly to "humane and charitable" jobs. Its finances and administration are left entirely to male members.

Daniels To Have Baby

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Clifton Daniel said today he and his wife, the former Margaret Truman, are expecting a child "about July."

Daniel, a member of the New York Times staff, said his wife is getting along "fine."

They were married April 21, 1956.

Smith Resigns

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (AP)—Paul Smith resigned today as president of the financially harassed Crowell-Collier Publishing Co.

Former Jungle Girl Gives Birth To Baby Son

BERGEN OP ZOOM, Netherlands, Feb. 15 (AP)—Maria Bertha Hertogh Wolkenfelt, who made headlines in 1950 as the Malayan jungle girl, gave birth today to a son. Both are in good health.

Lost for eight years as a result of the war in the Far East, Bertha was found in the care of a native nurse in Malaya in 1950. In order to be able to stay with the nurse, whom she called her foster mother, she married a Malayan school teacher. She was 13 then.

The marriage was annulled and she was restored to her Dutch parents, after which Moslems rioted in Singapore. At least 19 died in the rioting. But she was brought back to Holland and last April, at 19, she married Dutch cabinet maker John Gerard Wolkenfelt.

UN Approves Resolution For Algerian Peace

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Feb. 15 (AP)—The U. N. General Assembly approved unanimously today a "conciliatory" resolution expressing hope for a peaceful, democratic and just solution to end more than two years of violence and bloodshed in Algeria.

Both sides in the bitter dispute—the French and representatives of independence-seeking Arab nationalists—immediately claimed the Assembly action represented a victory for their point of view.

There was no word that the 77-0 vote had prompted new negotiations in Algeria, where more than 70 lives were lost in the past 24 hours in the continuing warfare between the French and the rebellious Arab nationalists.

France did not cast any vote in the Assembly. But Marcel Champeix, the French secretary of state for the interior, held a news conference to announce that his country considered the resolution "a capitulation, a surrender" by spokesmen in the U. N. for the Algerian rebels, and a "great victory for our country."

The French had announced previously that they would not heed any recommendations the United Nations might make on Algeria, which they regard as part of France and outside U. N. competence.

Champeix reiterated the view that Algeria is of no concern to the United Nations, but added it would be "unrealistic" not to favor the resolution which the Assembly passed.

Moulay Merbach, secretary general of the Algerian national movement, denied the Assembly action was a capitulation, but asserted the Assembly vote represented a "moral victory" for the Algerian people and upheld the legitimacy of their struggle for self-determination.

Publisher Indicted

BOSTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—A Suffolk County grand jury today indicted John Fox, publisher of the suspended Boston Post, on 299 counts charging failure to pay wages to employees.

Delicate Heart Operation Fails To Save 3-Year-Old

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—Three-year-old Bonnie Jean Wilkin of Norfolk, faced with certain death unless a hole in her heart was mended, survived a four-hour operation today but died 45 minutes later.

Bonnie Jean was brought to Johns Hopkins Hospital here last Monday. Doctors decided a operation to close the hard-to-reach hole between ventricles of her heart was her only chance for life.

Without the operation, Bonnie's prospects were described as three years at the most, with increasing invalidism. Bonnie would have been 4 in May but weighed only 22 pounds, about what she should have weighed when she was 1.

So the surgeons decided to operate. The delicate operation today appeared to be successful. Bonnie was on the operating table four hours. For 12 minutes a mechanical heart-lung oxygenator pump did the work of her heart and

Change Seen Return To Tough Policy

Soviet Shifts Foreign Ministers After Only Eight Months Period

MOSCOW, Feb. 15 (AP)—The Soviet government changed foreign ministers today, relieving bushy-haired Dmitri Shepilov after only eight months in the office. Unsmiling Andrei Gromyko succeeded him.

Westerners in Moscow believe the reshuffle is a signal for a return to the tough policies of former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, and is regarded as a follower of Stalinist lines.

On the other hand, easy-spoken Shepilov was regarded as a protégé of Nikita Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist party. Last year Khrushchev downgraded Stalin and adopted a let-live policy toward independent Communists in the satellites—policies from which the Soviet party shows signs of retreating.

Former Ambassador

Gromyko, as former ambassador in Washington and representative at the United Nations, has symbolized in Western eyes the Russian postwar habit of saying "No" and casting vetoes. Gromyko staged a dramatic walk from the Security Council in 1946 to block action on continued Soviet occupation of northern Iran. There was no indication Shepilov was being purged. He returns to his old post as one of the eight secretaries of the powerful Communist party Central Committee under Khrushchev. He was relieved of the secretariat job less than two months ago to allow him more time for his Foreign Ministry duties.

Before his appointment as foreign minister to replace Molotov last June 1 he was editor of the party newspaper Pravda.

His last important act as foreign minister was a major foreign policy speech to the Supreme Soviet last Tuesday. He proposed the big powers stop arms shipments to the Middle East, withdraw their troops and bases and join in cooperative economic developments.

Coupled With Mid East

Shepilov's rise to the Foreign Ministry was coupled with the Middle East. A visit he paid to Cairo in 1955 paved the way for Egypt's deal for Communist arms.

He replaced Molotov last June on the eve of a visit to Moscow by Yugoslav President Tito. The change looked like an appeasement of Tito. Molotov had taken a leading role in ejecting Yugoslav Communists from the Cominform in 1948.

Today the Kremlin, warned by the revolt in Hungary and the rise of an independent-minded Communist regime in Poland, no longer has such warm forgiveness for Tito.

Gromyko attained a full membership in the party's Central Committee a year ago. He is 47 years old, four years younger than Shepilov.

Of well-to-do parents in White Russia, Gromyko had a responsible job in the Foreign Ministry at 30, and then was sent to Washington. He became ambassador there in 1943.

Gromyko became deputy foreign minister in 1948 and returned to Moscow. In 1953, after a year as ambassador in London, he was made first deputy foreign minister.

This was the fourth time since World War II that the Soviet Foreign Ministry has changed heads.

Addicts Said Mostly Negroes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—A Narcotics Bureau report that 60 per cent of U. S. drug addicts are Negroes was made public today.

Negroes represent about 10 per cent of the total population, the report said. It was contained in testimony by Narcotics Commissioner H. J. Anslinger to a House Appropriations subcommittee in closed hearing Feb. 4 and made public today.

The bureau's breakdown gave these other figures: white population, 87.8 per cent of the total, with 29 per cent of the addicts; Mexican, 1.5 per cent of the population, 4 per cent of the addicts; Puerto Ricans, 0.2 per cent of the population, 5 per cent of the addicts; other races, 0.5 per cent of the population, 2 per cent of the addicts.

Rep. Passman (D-La) said in a statement the analysis was furnished at his request. He commented it shows an "extremely one-sided" racial distribution of addiction.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Brotherhood Week Opens Tomorrow

Brotherhood Week, under sponsorship of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, opens Sunday. The national chairman for community observance is Louis B. Seltzer, editor of the Cleveland Press.

Race relations and religious toleration have shown vast improvement since the sponsoring organization was founded in 1928, when a revived Ku Klux Klan was riding high and Al Smith's candidacy for President had generated a new wave of anti-Catholicism.

The National Conference is the one large national organization which unites Protestant, Catholic and Jew on matters of common principle. Its chief objective is fostering mutual understanding between members of different races and creeds, and among groups of differing national origin.

While the dictum of the Declaration of Independence that "all men are created equal" and "are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights" does not yet command universal acceptance throughout the United States, very great progress has been made in recent years. Lynching has virtually disappeared; bars to voting by Negroes have been lowered; segregation in schools, churches, public places and housing is on the way out; discrimination in employment is becoming a thing of the past, and members of minority groups are being admitted to trade unions and professional societies on terms of equality.

Not all of these changes have been brought about by religious teachings or feelings of concern for the rights and interests of others—"without regard to race, color or creed." Nor has the rate of change been uniform in all parts of the country. Yet the advances made, particularly since the war, would have astonished those who founded Brotherhood Week's sponsoring organization almost 30 years ago.

Little Wars Make Big Wars

The Middle Eastern problem does not settle down despite the wishes and desires of President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. They apparently believed that they could, by charm of personality, bring an end to a conflict that has an historical basis and must become more tense as Egypt develops its hegemony over African Islamic countries.

The Arabs present a complex which is strange to the Western world. Were Arabia one nation, as France is a nation, it might have been possible to formulate a plan in which national responsibility could be a factor. But there is no such nation as Arabia. There are many nations in which the Arabs form a majority of the people, in which a dialect of Arabian is spoken and in which the Islamic civilization prevails. The Arabic language, it is estimated, is spoken by about 45,000,000 people and its alphabet, in whole or modified, is employed in the Persian, Afghan, Urdu and some of the Turkish, Berber and Malayan languages.

Whereas Islam is a civilization and the Arabic language is used by all Arabs, a number of nations have evolved out of this people who emerged from the desert into the fertile lands, and into the Nile Valley and the Tigris-Euphrates area of fertility. The nations, in modern times, which have formed on the Crescent of Fertility and in the desert are Egypt, Iraq, Saudi Arabia, Jordan, Syria, Yemen, Lebanon and Israel; in addition to these there are a large number of sheikhdoms which are similar to European principalities. Neither Lebanon nor Israel ought to be included in this list but are for geographic reasons; on the other hand, Sudan, Libya, Algeria, Tunisia, Morocco and all the areas of North Africa and deep into the Sahara are basically a mixture of Arabic and all sorts of different peoples.

The Arabs are Semites and it is beyond doubt correct that aboriginal Arabs and aboriginal Hebrews were of identical origin. In Genesis, this origin is attributed to Abraham, whose sons Isaac and Ishmael are the progenitors of these two people. The probability is that the Babylonians, Assyrians, Chaldeans, Amorites, Aramaeans, Phoenicians, Hebrews, Arabs and Abyssinians were originally the same people and lived in the same area and differentiated as they moved out into new territory and intermarried with the natives.

We do know from the Bible that Abraham, who is recorded as the father of both the Hebrews and the Arabs, originated in Ur of Chaldees and was probably a Chaldean.

There are several theories as to the geographic origin of this people. It is believed that they originated either in Mesopotamia or the Arabian Peninsula; at any rate, they are found in both areas in very early times. The desert gets crowded because it can sustain life on any decent level for so few. And when the desert is crowded a political explosion occurs resulting in raids, wars and conquest. It was such an explosion which brought the Semitic and Hamitic peoples together and produced the Egyptians; it was a similar explosion that drove these Semitic nomads into Sumer and produced the Babylonians. These two peoples, the Egyptians and the Babylonians, gave mankind many of the practical foundations of our culture. Similarly, the Phoenicians, the Hebrews and the Syrians were products of such mass explosions in an overpopulated desert.

The Hebrews added to human culture the concept of a monotheistic God and they gave to mankind the Five Books of Moses, the Prophets and the New Testament, a wholly new sociology based on social justice and a morality, long in the making in both Egypt and Babylon. The evolution of this concept took centuries, but its origins are traceable.

It is out of this Arabian desert that small wars have been occurring for more than 4,000 years, wars of invasion, wars involving the reappearing of large areas, wars of expansion. If we follow the influence of the Arabic language, we find it in the Indian Ocean as we find it on the shore of the Atlantic.

It is the characteristic of desert peoples to move to where there is water and food. The Semitic stock is hardly in most of its manifestations and can take hardships in its stride. Even those Hebrews who lived in Europe seem to have been able to stand more strain than most other peoples.

"Aren't You Going To Punish Him, Too?"

Wage Stability Basic To Economic Welfare

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Will business be good? Are we headed for a readjustment of some kind? What's the meaning of the talk about "depression" and of the decline in the stock market?

These questions are being widely discussed and it's about the healthiest thing that has happened in a long while.

For the theory that there are no limits to what can be borrowed, that not much attention need be given to paying back public debt, that wages can rise a substantial amount every year, and that prices can go up to meet rising costs and everything will be rosy just the same, is the very thing that leads to economic imbalance and general distress.

The economic system is too big to be controlled by any single device, either of credit or anything else. Restricting the amount that can be borrowed is not in and of itself a remedy.

The success of the American system is based on a continuance each year of healthy profits. This doesn't mean that the owners themselves become saturated with wealth—as the radicals like to argue. It means that profits, when large, can be set aside as surplus and new jobs can be created because the surplus can be used to manufacture plant and equipment needed to attain greater efficiency.

But profits lately have been coming down. Last year saw the trend begin to decline. When larger companies find their costs so high that they cannot get the same rate of profits as before, it means that they have to cut down on dividends to stockholders. And when dividends start going off, the stocks themselves begin to be less attractive to buyers and the market begins to slide downward.

This doesn't necessarily mean depression or recession. It means readjustment. Business has to find its capital somehow. If it finds the supply of outside credit limited, it must start building up inside credit—from its surplus. Representative Patman of Arkansas, Democrat, calls this "costless capital." This is illusory. For when business has to dip into its reserves and cease to pay customary dividends, the stockholders pay for that use of capital because they are deprived of dividends they might otherwise have gotten—the wages of their invested capital. The company, moreover, loses the interest it previously had received when investing its surplus.

The over-all situation defies generalization. Some businesses are going ahead as usual. Others feel the pinch of "tight money" or restricted credit.

There is much talk in Congress about "small business." Lots of committees show concern over it, and lots of demagoguery is heard on the subject. There are many small businesses that are prospering and many that are not. Sometimes this latter condition is due to incompetent management and inefficiency, but more often it is due to the cost factors over which neither large nor small businesses have any control. While the big businesses with a long record of earnings that they have put aside for times of stress are able to weather such storms, the smaller concerns are not so fortunate. A mere pittance in tax relief wouldn't help them much. That's just a piece of political fakery.

The biggest single factor that neither large nor small business can overcome is the persistent rise in wage costs. Congress conveniently overlooks it. The doctrine that every year labor must have an advanced wage or else union leadership is not doing its job has taken hold to the extent that, unless something is done to stabilize wages, there will be a depression which will confirm all the statements that recently have been made about "hair curling."

Until wages are stabilized, prices will not be stabilized. Until wages and prices are both stabilized, the purchasing power of the dollar will not be stabilized. Money is like any other commodity—when it grows scarce, it becomes more expensive. The federal government is using up many billions of dollars that ought normally to flow into productive enterprise. The public is lending the government vast sums and hence there is less and less money available for private enterprise. Congress should cut the budget and put an end to luxury spending, but it is afraid of political repercussions. So the situation drifts on without any remedy in sight.

Confidence in the monetary unit is a delicate thing. When the public begins to see clearly the nature of the deadlock between sound economics and unhealthy politics, the end result is a sense of frustration. Public opinion, however, is today beginning to make itself felt. Congress is hearing from back home that labor monopolies have gone too far, that money has become too scarce, that public spending is too high and that it's time for more reliance to be placed on local communities and states rather than on the federal government.

The basic economy is strong, and the debate and discussion are useful in reversing the tides of irresponsibility which in recent years have characterized the field of wages and prices and public spending.

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

Christian Dior, Parisian fashion dictator, has decreed that for 1957 women will be free to choose skirt lengths, decollete and bust curve according to their figures and personalities. Now stylish stouts can be just exactly that!

Wives, according to a prominent eastern tailor, should have the say in the selection of their husbands' suits. With the understanding, of course, that the poor fellows will still be permitted to pay for 'em.

One out of every 10 Americans are unable to identify Christopher Columbus, according to a recent survey. Shucks, that's nothing—when Chris first landed over here he was unable to identify America!

A German doctor who successfully crossed the Atlantic alone in a small boat reports he capsized twice during the voyage. Surely, he couldn't have been making the trip for his health.

Ostriches, according to Factographs, sometimes grow to be seven feet tall. Now—if we could only teach the stubborn critters to play basketball—

The radish is believed to have originated in what is now Communist-controlled Asia. No wonder it's pronounced Red-dish.

The Modern Languages association convenes in Washington. That should stir up a lot of talk.

How You, Too, Can Have A Coronary Attack

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Coronary clubs are springing up all over the country. Membership is open to anyone who recovers from a heart attack. There are no by-laws, no dues, and no meetings to attend. But do not expect to find the organization listed in the phone book. It is a mythical club that functions only through mutual understanding.

No one wants to be a candidate for admission, but after an attack of coronary thrombosis, the man can hardly wait to be taken in because membership is synonymous with recovery. The smarter members profit from the experience and adopt a new philosophy of life. They find a new joy in living in a pattern they should have instituted 20 years previously. For one thing, they now have an excuse to say "no" whenever asked to do something they do not care to do.

To become eligible for a coronary attack, A. G. Kettunen of East Lansing, Mich., submitted several suggestions in a letter to the Michigan Heart Association. You would better mend your ways lest you become a prospective candidate. Here they are:

1. Your job comes first; personal considerations are secondary.
2. Go to the office evenings, Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays.
3. Take the brief case home on the evenings when you do not go to the office. This provides an opportunity to review completely all the troubles and worries of the day.
4. Always say YES.
5. Accept all invitations to meetings, banquets, and committees.
6. Do not eat a restful, relaxing meal. Always plan a conference for the meal hour.
7. Fishing and hunting are just a waste of time and money. You never bring back enough fish or game to justify the expense.
8. It is poor policy to take all the vacation time which is provided for you.
9. Golf, bowling, pool, billiards, cards, and gardening are a waste of time.
10. Never delegate responsibility to others; carry the load at all times.
11. If your work calls for traveling, work all day and drive all night to make your appointment for the next morning.

What better ways do you have to get a heart attack?

Northern visitors to charming Charleston, South Carolina, have been heard to complain that, while the natives' language is very mellifluous, it's next to impossible to understand.

To remedy this, Ashley Cooper, of the Charleston News and Courier, has compiled a dictionary of Charlestonese, available from that newspaper's editorial sanctum at the modest price of two bits a throw. Here are a few entries:

CANE CHEW — Aren't you able to?

Air Force Jet Fighter Reported Safer Than Commercial Aircraft

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—If any wives or mothers are worried about their menfolk being jet Air Force pilots, they ought to stop worrying. My wife was worried too about my taking a ride in an Air Force fighter-interceptor. But I have concluded that in peacetime they are even safer than commercial planes. And I think anyone viewing all the safety precautions taken by the Air Force would agree with me.

I went out to Andrews Air Force Base the other day to get some idea of how well the Atlantic coast was protected. I figured the best way to do this was to see for myself and take a ride in a jet fighter. The Andrews Base is headquarters for the 85th Air Division, which guards the eastern USA from New Jersey to North Carolina, and which is part of an amazingly efficient network of warnings, including Canada and Mexico and even extending out to sea, in which the Army, Navy, and Civil Defense all participate.

It's something every American should know about, though it took me longer to learn about it than I expected, thanks to the fact that the Air Force won't let you fly in a jet without a rigorous physical which lasted half a day, plus a training course in handling a parachute, a Mae West, a lifeboat, and emergency landing. This is one reason I say you are safer in an Air Force plane than in a commercial plane. You can get out in case of emergency.

Frankly I had a hard time remembering just when you use the sea-marker, where to find the signal mirror and the whistle for use in calling rescue ships, whether to use the smoke flares at night or the red flares in the daytime, or vice versa; and how long to leave the charcoal tablets in your rubber pail of seawater before you can drink it.

Searing Sharks

"You don't eat the shark repellent, no matter how hungry you are," insisted Sgt. James Muddoon, the rescue instructor. "It makes the sharks sick, and you won't like it either. When they get it in their gills they go away."

However, I was able to remember the chief details about bailing out. The parachute is strapped on so tight you almost have to sit stoop-shouldered. And when you're in the mood to bail out you pull a lever to tighten it up even more, then pull a trigger, and you shoot out into the air. After you fall to 10,000 feet the parachute releases automatically. You just don't have to worry about it. Of course, if you insist on worrying, there's a safety manual release which you can use yourself in case the automatic release should forget to work.

"What happens if I pull the trigger by mistake before the airplane canopy is removed?" I asked flight instructor Lt. J. B. Ledbetter Jr.

"Then you shoot right through the canopy. It won't hurt you. Your helmet will punch a hole in it."

The helmet, built like a football player's, was indeed a well-built covering. Attached to it was the most frustrating gadget of all, the oxygen mask. Inside the mask, right under your nose, is a tiny microphone. A wire connects it with the front cockpit, enabling me to talk to Capt. Ben C. Murph as if he were alongside me in a Washington sitting room.

It also enabled him to talk to the ground and to other planes in the air. I could listen in on such Air Force jargon as "matress," meaning the cloud layer below; "blankets," meaning the cloud layer above; "pigeons," meaning the direction home; "oranges sweet"—good weather; and "oranges sour"—bad weather.

To show how the 85th Air Division goes into action in case an unidentified plane appears off the Atlantic coast, Captain Murph took me aloft in an F-94 C Starfire in a simulated "scramble." A scramble is the quick getaway of fighter jets when the alarm is sounded. The pilots can get from their bunks into the plane and aloft in five minutes.

In this case the F-94 C in which I rode became an enemy plane and two F-86 D's simulated knocking us out of the skies. It was a very exciting maneuver.

The chief thing that worried me during the intercept was Lt. William Gorman of Emporia, Kans., pilot of the escort F-94 C. He kept so close on our port side that I thought our wings were going to touch. The Air Force calls this "holding hands." I did not feel that romantic about it. Of course, you realize I was worried for Lt. Gorman's safety, not for my own.

After it was all over, Lt. Karl Sanders of Sreman, Texas, Gorman's radar observer, cheered me up: "It's much safer that way. If you get too far away from each other you might get lost in the clouds."

At one point Captain Murph began zooming down toward the ground in what seemed to me like a nose dive. Actually he was only "peeling off," with Lt. Gorman's plane following him wing-to-wing. Whatever it was, however, I confess the sweat stood out on my forehead.

Capt. Collins G. Shackelford of Holly Springs, Miss., and Lt. Tom H. Duncan of Russellville, Ala., of the 48th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron, had come up from Langley Field, Va., to intercept us. They piloted the two "dogs" which "knocked" us out of the air. They first appeared on the horizon like small blackbirds south of Wilmington, Del., so small you could hardly see them. In about 30 seconds they were right on top of us. Once a fighter gets that close he can't miss.

Adventuring

By Brother Barnabas

Life itself is a great adventure and it is wished upon us.

We enter this mundane sphere as a dash of viable protoplasm whose genesis is both human and divine.

The two elements are never completely separated through life. Sometimes they are so close together we don't know where one leaves off and the other begins.

Sometimes heaven touches earth like a rainbow—as in holy matrimony; as when a child is born; as in worship as when a nun sings "My Rosary" or a minister or rabbi lifts his congregation on wings of prayer. Then,

"Heaven comes down our souls to meet,

While glory crowns the mercy seat."

And at the death of a godly man or woman the heavens seem to part and we glimpse a light that never was seen on land or sea.

Haydn's "Creation"

The meaning of music goes deep. When Haydn in his age heard a rendition of his "Creation" he was given an ovation. When the great chorus sang "Let there be light," the old man rose in his seat and pointing with his cane to heaven said "It came from there."

One day Doctor Anthony Over, a famous surgeon down by the Gas Station, received an emergency call: "Aunt Belinda is at death's door. Come and pull her through if possible."

The call came from an only nephew, hence we can understand his solicitude. And especially since the woman had immense wealth and he was her sole legatee.

By a simple operation the cerebral occlusion was relieved and the operation was a complete success. Afterwards, however, the patient died from shock. At least the nurse told the doctor, the doctor told the preacher, the preacher told the sexton and the sexton tolled the bell.

One day a bug gets into your system or something hits you in your solar plexus, and you wake up in the hospital. Under the circumstances you couldn't wish for a couch more magnificent, at least for the time being. There you get what you need to make you well.

You sign away your right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. They put your earthly goods in cold storage. They even take your temperature. One novice thought the clinical thermometer was a place to be chewed and swallowed. His temperature went up by degrees.

Feel Like Prune

Meanwhile you are diagnosed, dieted, thumped, X-rayed, stuck and stitched until you feel like a dehydrated, desiccated prune.

But when you are able to walk out on your own power, clothed and in your right mind, your earthly goods repossessed, the staff, the debutante nurses and nurses' aides, and the fellow pilgrims who in turn will follow you wave a hearty "Cheerio" and you echo back with Tiny Tim, "God bless you every one!"

It is commonly accepted that Death is a grim monster. Charles Frohman, the actor, on the deck of the sinking Lusitania, said to Rita Jolivet (I heard her tell the story): "Why fear death? It is the most beautiful adventure of life."

Personally, I feel that today, any day, provides more significant occasions for adventure—in friendship, forgiveness, self-mastery, courage, heroism. Here in we find God and man in closest relation of adventure.

Take the lethal discussion of racial segregation as a case in point. When Teddy Roosevelt was President, Booker T. Washington happened in at lunch at the White House, and Teddy invited his colored friend to sit down and share the repast with him. The event raised a big hullabaloo, especially in those parts of the country where the color line was more strictly drawn.

But it was that gesture that put "teeth" into the anti-segregation movement that culminated in the Supreme Court's ruling against segregation, and sparked the NAACP.

George Washington was the Father of his country. Booker T. Washington was the godfather of the cultural advance of his race.

It was he who, as he said, "cleaned out a hen house." And from that humble beginning he developed Tuskegee Institute, one of the greatest educational centers of its class to be found anywhere.

I have never seen such reverent silence as 1700 students stood in the dining-hall while "grace" was said.

Other examples of what courage and initiative can do when men and God adventure together will occur to the thoughtful reader.

Here I have just space enough to subscribe myself, Adventurously yours,

Brother Barnabas

Garrett County Gets Report On Highway Work

Progress Noted In Five Projects

OAKLAND — Five of the eight primary highway projects scheduled for Garrett County during the first four years of the State Roads Commission's 12-year road program will have been completed or under contract by the end of 1957.

In October 1952, the SRC "Yellow Book" of scheduled work listed eight jobs during the first four years, 1954 through 1957, to cost an estimated $3,529,984.

Up to December 31, 1956, when the State Roads Commission presented its summary of the first three years, four projects had been undertaken with one of them scheduled for this year.

Projects Listed

Listed for construction and the estimated cost in 1952 when the program was drawn up were the following jobs:

Route 40 at Little Savage Mountain, relocation and overpass, $232,000.

Route 219 from Oakland to Weber, two miles, $600,000.

Route 219, Deep Creek Lake to Thayerville, 2.7 miles, $479,000.

Route 219, Weber to Gortner, 1.9 miles, $215,000.

Route 219, U. S. 40 east of Grantsville to the Pennsylvania Line, 2.1 miles, $265,000.

Route 39, Crellin to the West Virginia Line, 1.8 miles, $222,000.

Route 219, Hoyes to Deep Creek Lake, 6.57 miles, $568,000.

Route 219, Thayerville to Oakland, 8.2 miles, $250,000.

All except the Little Savage job, and the Thayerville to Oakland stretch were for modification of curves, widening to 24 feet, and resurfacing.

Accomplishments Listed

The Thayerville-Oakland stretch was to be, second stage resurfacing.

Actually accomplished were these:

Little Savage, $543,758 ($312,758 over).

Deep Creek to Thayerville, 2.4 miles, $823,156 ($345,156 over estimate).

Route 219 to Pennsylvania line, 2.1 miles, $425,510 ($169,510 over).

Thayerville to Oakland, resurfacing, second stage, 6.12 miles, $162,560 over with 2.08 miles to be finished.

This year the State Roads Commission will let for contract the two miles of Route 219 between Oakland and Weber. The SRC estimates this job will cost $1,566,000. In 1952, when the rising costs had not appeared, the SRC engineers figured it would cost $600,000.

VFW, Auxiliary Present Flags To Keyser PTA

KEYSER—The Keyser Parent-Teacher Association met yesterday in the high school auditorium. Mrs. Ross Prysock, president, opened the program by presenting Post Commander Leo C. Shuck, of Nancy Hanks Post 3518, Veterans of Foreign War.

She introduced Mrs. Heien Knotts, VFW Auxiliary president; Mrs. Nancy Garrett, essay contest chairman; and Joseph Clark, post surgeon and legislative officer. Shuck presented small flags to the Homeroom Mothers organization for use in the school rooms and large standards for on the stage. William Michael, program chairman, gave the acceptance speech after Mrs. L. W. Matlick, homeroom mother chairman, Michael and Mrs. Prysock were given the flags.

The program theme for the evening was Founders Day and Mrs. Prysock read the list of past presidents. They were Mrs. Ernest Parsons, the first one in 1923 and 1924; Mrs. Emory Tyler, the first after a lapse of ten years, 1934; Mrs. George McNeill, who was the third and fifth; Mrs. Cleo Swecker, Mrs. T. L. Bright, Mrs. Jay Johnson, Mrs. Raymond Elliott, Mrs. Elizabeth Stoutamyer, Mrs. Showalter, Mrs. James Handlan, Jack Goehegan, and William Michael.

The homeroom mothers, under direction of Mrs. Matlick, formed a chorus and sang three selections, with Mrs. Frances Hartman as soloist. Mrs. Parker Black was the accompanist.

A panel program was given on "I've Got A Secret," with Oran Brown as master of ceremonies.

On the panel were Mrs. Gerould Klimester, Mrs. Nelle Smith, elementary teachers, and Joseph Stanislawczyk and Owen Schaefer, high school teachers. Others on the panel were Mrs. John Droppelman, Mrs. Lowell Manning, William Michael, Mrs. Harry Chapman, and Mrs. Black, who sang "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Kaufman.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Harland Ridder, hospitality chairman, and her committee, Mrs. Charles Vossler, Mrs. James Swadley, and Mrs. James Watson.

Parsons 4-H Has Initiation

PARSONS — Members of the Parsons Panthers 4-H Club met for their regular meeting in the city building Monday evening. The group sang the 4-H Club hymn and the Rev. Meade Gushall led the prayer.

A talk, "Failures Aren't Fatal" was given by Amanda Lee Lambert. Ruth Lou Williams recited a poem "Abraham Lincoln Walks at Midnight."

A committee was appointed by the president to have charge of the 4-H Club exhibit in March. Amanda Lee Lambert was named chairman.

A formal initiation of new members was held with the following participating in the initiation ceremony: Bill Kee, Alan Schilansky, Ruth Lou Williams, Amanda Lee Lambert, Gilbert Henry and Robert Schoonover. New members are Sarah Mullen, J. R. Rightmire, Kristina Koecherderfer, Denny Schoonover and John Kee.

Recreation consisted of square dancing and was under the supervision of N. C. Hardin Jr., county agent.

Guests for the evening were members of the Panther Club 4-H Club. Mrs. Louis A. Williams is adult leader for the Panthers and Mrs. H. S. Pitchford is adult leader for the Panther Cubs.

Future Bright In Cumberland Rykoskey Says

Tells CTP Of B&O Expansion Plans

Cumberland's peculiar geographic location was not the major factor in the decision of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company's projected plan to build a $13,000,000 yard expansion and motive power equipment repair facility here, F. B. Rykoskey, general superintendent of motive power and equipment said last night.

Addressing upwards of 400 railroad employees and their guests at a Cooperative Traffic Program dinner last night in Ali Ghan Shrine Club, Mr. Rykoskey said major factors are not only the location but the large pool of skilled and capable manpower here, the years of loyalty and the years of efficient service by these people, and good labor-management relations.

Mr. Rykoskey did not dwell at length on the scope of the development and expansion program, but stated that plans call for a huge assembly yard with the most modern power repair facility ever built in the center. "We are in competition with not only other carriers, but with ourselves," he observed. Other terminals are alert and competing for expansion and development, he said. "But here in Cumberland, where management has been sound and employees have been loyal, the greatest opportunity is offered."

Opportunity Here
"No one can make a young man starting out in business successful," he commented. "No one can make Cumberland successful, only the opportunity can be provided."

So far as the Baltimore and Ohio in Cumberland is concerned, "that opportunity is here now," he declared. "Factors which will continue to influence the company's development here," he promised, "are continued loyalty, ingenuity, cooperation, confidence and faith of every member of the B&O family."

Explaining why the expansion on the system has become necessary, Mr. Rykoskey told his listeners that in the past 15 years the B&O has seen great increases in freight business, despite keen competition from trucks, airlines and other railroads. For example, he noted that the Pennsylvania Railroad shows an increase in freight hauled of 25 per cent and the New York Central shows a 28 per cent gain in 15 years. The Baltimore and Ohio increase, he declared, has been 58 per cent.

Must Offer Service
In that same 15-year period, the company has reduced its bonded indebtedness by $200,000,000 and has refinanced bonds to reduce interest rates.

Greater service at lower costs to customers has been possible, Mr. Rykoskey said because of the character of workers, loyalty, cooperation and railroad family skill applied where and when needed.

To hold the position gained, he observed, the company must continue to offer first rate service by first rate employees.

Such service by the railroad, he suggested, is not only necessary for survival, but essential for continued growth and expansion. It is also necessary to the public, but it is an essential of national security.

Since 1955, he outlined, the company has bought 3,000 new freight cars and rebuilt, 1,003. The company has ordered 1,200 new cars and plans to rebuild 2,400 this year. There have been acquired 125 Diesel units and 93 are ordered for delivery this year.

"These new units and this new motive equipment will require vast facilities for maintenance, repair and handling. Thus, the need for bigger and better yards and more modern repair facilities. Depends On People

The speaker emphasized again and again that the future expansion of the proposed project depends almost entirely on the B&O people themselves. He mentioned especially E. M. Scherch, superintendent of the back shops; A. E. Beckman, master mechanic; and W. N. Kaylor, superintendent of Bolt and Forge and reclamation. These men face the continued problem of doing good and efficient work and keeping costs down. They have done and will continue to do the right kind of a job he said.

Mr. Rykoskey who started with the B&O as a machinist's helper in 1920 and has risen steadily through a long series of positions of responsibility was appointed to his present position in 1944 when A. K. Galloway retired.

He was introduced last night by T. J. Klauenberg, division superintendent who served as toastmaster. T. L. Morgan Sr. chairman of arrangements thanks his committee members and John W. Bliss of Baltimore also spoke briefly.

Entertainment includes vocal selections by Frank H. Coffman, accompanied by Miss Judy Kompanek, and selections by the El Fidel Glee Club. J. W. Daugherty, chairman of the CTP greeted the guests and presented the toastmaster.

Rev. Russell Fink offered the invocation and Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. L. Kilkenny the benediction. Following the dinner, there was dancing to the music of Jimmy Andres and his Orchestra.

Principals At B&O CTP Dinner-Dance

T. J. Klauenberg, Baltimore and Ohio Railroad division superintendent, Ward Daugherty, general chairman of the Cumberland Division CTP, and Francis B. Rykoskey, superintendent of motive power and equipment, shake hands as they attend a dinner at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club last night. Mr. Klauenberg was toastmaster and Mr. Rykoskey was guest speaker. Upwards of 400 Baltimore and Ohio employees and their guests heard Mr. Rykoskey paint a word picture of the bright outlook for the B&O in Cumberland. Standing, left to right, are Grayson Lucas, C. F. Hare, William E. McCleary, W. P. Yarnall and Thomas L. Morgan, committee members of the Division CTP.

Widow Seeks $55,000 From Crash Driver

Fatal Route 40 Accident Involved

The widow of a 56-year-old man who was fatally injured in a two-car collision just east of the city limits on U.S. Route 40 filed suit yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court for $55,000 damages against the driver of the car in which her husband was riding.

Mrs. Louise A. McDonald, 113 Decatur Street, widow of Carl McDonald, through Attorney Julius E. Schindler, brought two suits seeking the $55,000 against Thomas A. Darr, 351 Bedford Street.

McDonald was fatally injured in the crash about 11 p. m. last December 15 when Darr's west-bound vehicle collided head-on with a car being driven east on Route 40 by Mrs. Marian M. Fey, Colonial Manor Hotel.

One suit seeks $50,000 for loss of service, support, care and maintenance of her husband. The declaration contends that Darr was driving at a high, unlawful and dangerous rate of speed and traveled across the center of the highway where he struck Mrs. Fey's vehicle. McDonald sustained a ruptured heart and numerous other injuries which caused his death.

The other suit, for $5,000, is for the burial, hospital and ambulance expenses incurred as a result of the fatal crash.

Darr was indicted by the grand jury in January for manslaughter but the case has not yet been tried.

Wednesday at 7 p. m. the Centenary senior choir will rehearse and the MYF will meet at 7:30 p. m. The Zion senior choir will rehearse at 7:30 p. m. and the Pleasant Grove MYF also will meet at 7:30 p. m.

Pleasant Grove senior choir will practice Thursday at 7 p. m. and the circuit prayer meeting will be held at Zion Church at 7:30 p. m.

Friday at 7:30 p. m. the Centenary WSCS will meet at Pleasant Grove Church and serve a supper for members of the choir.

Compulsory Insurance Bill To Be Introduced In House

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 15 (AP)—A Baltimore City delegate voiced suspicion today that insurance companies are trying to "becloud the issue" of requiring every motor vehicle to be covered by a liability policy.

Del. Mandel (D-Balto 5th) said he will try to force the issue by introducing in the House next week a bill for compulsory insurance.

There is one in the Senate along with an alternative proposal to set up a fund on which claims could be made by persons involved in accidents with uninsured vehicles. "They apparently are dying in the Senate," Mandel said. "Mutual Maryland."

Papers Not Outdated, Norfolk Editor Asserts

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—Thomas A. Hanes, managing editor of The Norfolk Va. Ledger Dispatch, tonight took to task any fellow newspapermen and anybody else who, he said, might suspect that newspapers are an outdated institution.

Hanes spoke at the annual banquet of the combined meeting of the Maryland Press Association and the Chesapeake Association of the Associated Press.

Many newspapermen went "into deep shock" when they heard that statistics indicated the average subscriber was spending 8 per cent less time reading papers than he did 15 years ago, Hanes said. "This, concluded the researchers pompously, proves conclusively that television is replacing newspapers," he said.

"The very essential element that the experts overlooked in their slanted statistics is education. "Fifteen years ago the educational level of adults above the age of 25 was eight years of schooling. Today the educational level of the same adults is more than ten years of schooling.

"Thus while the time actually spent reading a newspaper might be less than it was 15 years ago, the reader with 16 per cent more education could be expected to read much faster and comprehend more easily.

"To put it more simply we might assume reasonably that a tenth grade pupil can read anything faster and with better understanding than an eighth grade pupil."

Hanes said another thing the statisticians overlooked was the birth increase of more than four million babies last year, "and as far as we have been able to ascertain not a single one of these infants has subscribed to a newspaper."

"Even at that, a few diaper-clad geniuses might have smuggled reading matter into their cradles because the circulation of newspapers jumped more than a million deaths in the age group that reads newspapers."

Hanes poohed the contention that newspapers had lost face in recent political campaigns because voters in their area did not ballot the way the editorials suggested.

Earlier, MPA members elected Oscar Morris, editor of The Salisbury Times, as their new president. Morris succeeds Charles W. Gerwig, editor of the weekly Elliott City Times.

Medical Society Conducting Drive For Polio Shots

The Allegany-Garrett County Medical Society is conducting a drive to encourage vaccination of every one under the age of 40 against poliomyelitis before the 1957 polio season.

Dr. Benedict Skitarelic, society chairman, has named Dr. H. W. Eliason to head the campaign here. As a part of the program, the group has designated March 1 to April 15 as "Polio V Days."

During the drive, patients will be urged to receive polio shots from their private physicians, who are urged to set aside time for vaccinations. Clinics also have been set up by the Allegany County Health Department.

Bedford Street Residents Plan Meeting Tuesday

Residents of the 300, 400 and 500 blocks of Bedford Street have been invited to a neighborhood meeting at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday at First Christian Church to discuss the parking ban on their street.

A spokesman for the neighborhood said last night that the no parking provisions have applied only to the three blocks between Decatur and Marietta streets. Several days ago the parking ban was rescinded on the upper side of the street.

Residents apparently believe that their three blocks are the victims of discrimination.

$3,000 Bond Is Posted In Murder Case

Bond of $3,000 cash has been posted by a relative of Howard Butler, 55, of Piedmont, W. Va. who is charged with the December 30 murder of Mrs. Velma Greenhorn, in order that he may go to Baltimore Tuesday for plastic surgery on his face.

In Mineral County Circuit Court yesterday, Judge Ernest A. See set the bond after reading a statement from Dr. A. J. Mirkin, local physician, who pointed out that Mr. Butler is urgently in need of plastic surgery work as a result of a wound in the face incurred the night of the shooting.

The physician said such work could only be done in this area at the Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore by Dr. R. W. Johnson, surgeon, with whom arrangements have been made to have the surgical work performed Tuesday.

Hit-Run Accident Probe Continues

City Police are continuing an investigation into a hit-run accident yesterday morning on North Mechanic Street in which Edward Donald, 43, of Gilmore, an employee of the E. J. Albrecht Construction Company, was hospitalized.

Attaches at Sacred Heart Hospital last night said Mr. Donald is in "satisfactory" condition and is complaining of chest injuries. He also sustained a hip injury and X-rays were taken.

Employed as a flagman for the company, Mr. Donald was working traffic on the northern section of the city when the accident occurred about 8:30 a. m. It was reported the driver of the car was a woman wearing a yellow scarf.

The license number of the fleeing vehicle was obtained and police issued a "pickup" order. Police said the victim was flagging traffic at the site of the sewer line which is being laid by the construction company in the 700 block of North Mechanic Street.

A witness said the driver stopped momentarily and then drove away.

Youth Dinner Set Tomorrow At St. John's

Gettysburg College Coach Will Speak

A dinner for the youths of St. John's Lutheran Church will be held tomorrow at 6 p. m. in the basement assembly room of the church, according to Rev. Russell E. Fink.

About 60 young people of the church are expected to attend the dinner which is being sponsored by the Luther League.

Guest speaker for the occasion will be Bob Davies, basketball coach at Gettysburg (Pa.) College, and former professional basketball player. Davies is also known in the Lutheran Church as an outstanding speaker and is active in church work with youths.

The program also will include a presentation by the Luther League, a worship service conducted by the youth group, and group singing.

Assisting in the activities for the evening will be Roma Grinn, Bill Hahn, Fred Eichner, Barbara Mann and Kaye Ott. Rev. Mr. Fink will be toastmaster.

Mothers of the Luther League will prepare and serve the dinner.

Archibald To Head AP Group

BALTIMORE, Feb. 15 (AP)—Fred I. Archibald, publisher of the Baltimore News-Post, today was elected president of Chesapeake Association of The Associated Press, at its annual meeting.

Al Friendly, of the Washington Post and Times-Herald, was elected vice-president, and Max Fullerton, AP chief of bureau in Baltimore, was re-elected secretary.

Retiring president Oscar L. Morris, of the Salisbury Times, said he would appoint a committee to investigate the possibility of forming a state AP wirephoto network. The action was taken after Harry T. Montgomery explained the operation of the state systems.

If the state wirephoto plan is adopted it will mean that participating newspapers in Maryland will be able to exchange local news pictures by wire in 15 minutes transmission time.

Paul Broderick of the Baltimore Evening Sun, chairman of the group's Freedom of Information Committee, said a seminar would be held next April to review with judges and law enforcement officers the handling of pictures pertaining to prisoners and the courts.

The Chesapeake AP Association is made up of all daily newspapers in Maryland, Delaware and the Washington Star and the Washington Post and Times Herald.

Puderbaugh Will Address Grocers

F. A. Puderbaugh, local attorney, will discuss the Wage and Hours Law at a meeting of the Independent Retail Food Dealers of Western Maryland at 8 p. m. Monday at Central YMCA.

Daniel Y. Browne, president of the grocers, invites all interested food dealers to join in the discussion with Mr. Puderbaugh, whether they are members of the group or not.

Number Given

Residents of the Ridgeley area who are in need of the services of the police department in that community are asked to dial RE 6-9253, which is the residence of Assistant Chief Blair O. Haines, who lives on Mineral Street.

Mayor Charles H. Fryer said last night calls will be taken at that number for a temporary time which is expected to last for about two weeks.

Car Tag Boost Repealer Goes To Governor

Income Tax Refund Plan Passes House

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 15 (AP)—Whether Maryland motorists are going to be relieved of the worry of paying more for their license tags was put squarely up to Gov. McKeldin today by the Legislature.

All 29 senators agreed to send him a bill repealing higher fees which have been on the books since 1954 and postponed yearly with the governor's acquiescence. However, he has stated he feels they should be kept hanging in case it is decided sometime later that the extra money is needed by the State Roads Commission.

If McKeldin decides to veto the repealer, a decision he will have to make during next week, there appears little doubt the Legislature will go over his head. It takes 18 senators to override and 74 delegates. The House passed the repealer with 95 in favor and only nine against.

Took Some Prodding

The House took some prodding this afternoon before enough delegates favored the State keeping income tax refunds of less than a dollar.

In the first display of votes the bill lacked a few of the necessary 74. It finally got 78 after several delegates ridiculed those in opposition.

Del. Robinson (D-Balto 4th) scored the bickering over a "piddling amount of money." Actually, he said it was a State economy move because it sometimes cost more to return refund checks than the amount due the taxpayer.

Del. Cardin (D-Balto 5th) objected that "if the State owes a taxpayer a half a buck it should not say it's too much trouble to give it back."

Other protesting delegates felt that the State should adopt the same practice as the federal government which returns less than a dollar if the taxpayer requests it in writing.

The House also approved authority for the Income Tax Division to prosecute self-styled experts who try to gouge every imaginable deduction in preparing returns for others.

Anyone making out a fraudulent return for a taxpayer would be subject to a $1,000 fine and six months in jail.

Vote Expense Funds

In other action today, the senators voted themselves a 50 per cent increase in expense money.

An order, adopted on a vote of 22-3, sets the expense allowance at $10 a day during sessions, the same schedule as in the House of Delegates.

In the past, the senators had received $200 per month during each session. This grant is in addition to payments for travel and postage expenses.

Sen. Friend (R-Garrett), who voiced opposition to the increase, said, "We're all losing more than $10 a day this week, but I don't think this looks good to the constituents at home."

Sens. Phipps (D-Anne Arundel) and Shipley (D-Howard) went along with Friend in the vote.

Sen. Turnbull (D-Balto County) took the floor on personal privilege to invite the Commission on Governmental Efficiency and Economy to show legislators how they can balance the budget without a tax increase.

The self-appointed watchdog group, composed mostly of businessmen and bankers, said in a report issued in Baltimore that it could be done.

Turnbull said, "those with no responsibility are the first to criticize and carp at those with responsibility."

May Help Schools

Turnbull joined Senate President (Goldstein (D-Calvert) in a double-edged suggestion for providing school building money and possibly offsetting a deficit in State retirement contributions.

They took note in a resolution that the State has to put an extra $1,515,900 into pension funds of employees. The State is obligated to contribute an interest rate of 4 per cent on the funds, but the money invested in federal government securities returns only 2.85 per cent.

Turnbull and Goldstein proposed that the State consider loaning the retirement funds to county and municipalities to build schools.

They pointed out, "The current market for State, county and municipal bonds requires the payment of exorbitantly high interest rates, to private business."

There are more than 100 million dollars in the State retirement funds.

Park Service Requested To Restore Constellation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Maryland senators and congressmen want the National Park Service to take over and restore the old U.S.S. Constellation, with the government footing half the cost of restoration.

A bill to have the park service take over was introduced by Senators Butler and Beall, both Republicans, and several members of Maryland's delegation in the House.

The 159-year-old frigate, the nation's oldest warship afloat, was towed to Baltimore, from Boston 1½ years ago.

It was saved from foundering this week by men of the Baltimore Fire Department's marine division, which spotted and plugged a leak in the aged hull.

Walnut Island Lease Recorded

The lease whereby the Mayor and City Council gave the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company 18 months to test for sand and gravel on Walnut Island in the Potomac River below Wiley Ford was recorded yesterday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court.

For the price of $300, the company is given exclusive right for 18 months to make borings, test pits and other means to determine if merchantable and marketable sand and gravel exist on the island.

The company is given 15 years to mine sand and gravel from the island provided the Mayor and City Council get six cents per cubic yard of all sand and gravel removed. The minimum rental for the island will be $50 a quarter.

Eight Boys Admit Wave Of Larceny

Hearing Is Slated In Juvenile Court

Eight school boys who live in LaVale, and range in age from 14 to 17 years, were picked up here yesterday afternoon and after questioning by authorities admitted being implicated in a wave of larceny in LaVale since last summer.

Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the Maryland State Police, took the boys to the State's Attorney's office where they were questioned by he and Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator.

Over 100 parked cars in the LaVale sector had been pilfered by the boys, according to Sgt. Baker, who said they stole such items as flashlights, cigarettes and money found in the autos.

Since last summer authorities have been getting complaints from LaVale residents and several days ago police received information leading to the apprehension of the youths.

One of the boys admitted taking some 50 cartons of cigarettes from a salesman whose car was parked in the area of Parkside Drive and distributed them among the other boys.

On one occasion, a ladder was taken from the garage of Colonial Apartments in LaVale. It was used to get to a second story porch, where a case of beer was stolen. The extension ladder was taken across the railroad tracks and hidden in the woods.

Sgt. Baker said the boys admitted taking quantities of beer placed by the owners on their back porches.

The boys signed statements admitting the thefts and will be given hearing before Judge Morris Baron in Juvenile Court.

LaVale Zoning Bill Discussed At Meet

Approximately 65 residents of District 29 in the LaVale area met last night at the Parkside School to hear a discussion of the amended zoning bill of that district.

Harry Kauffman, local attorney, explained the amendment which would remove the LaVale Sanitation Commission as the governing body. The bill was read in its entirety by Walter N. Hedrick, chairman of the LaVale Civic Improvement Association.

A panel discussion was held by members of the Board of Directors of the Improvement Association.

Cumberland Glass Co. Sells LaVale Tract

The Cumberland Glass Company, Inc., which was burned out of its LaVale plant last Fall, has sold that property along the northwest side of National Highway to Charles W. Yergan and Grace S. Yergan.

Deed for the property was filed for record yesterday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court. Yergan, operator of the Queen Glass Company which was partially destroyed by the fire last fall, announced last week plans to rebuild and enlarge the glass processing and cutting company. The two firms operated next to each other in the old Braddock distillery property.

Park Service Requested To Restore Constellation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—Maryland senators and congressmen want the National Park Service to take over and restore the old U.S.S. Constellation, with the government footing half the cost of restoration.

A bill to have the park service take over was introduced by Senators Butler and Beall, both Republicans, and several members of Maryland's delegation in the House.

National Guard Armory Gets Green Light

Defense Department Approves Project

The proposed $300,750 National Guard Armory for Cumberland got the green light yesterday from the Defense Department in Washington.

Senator John Marshall Butler, Maryland's senior senator, received a communication yesterday from Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker that the Defense Department now has no objection to separate National Guard and Army Reserve Armories in Cumberland.

Senator Butler's office reported that originally the Defense Department held the view that in both Cumberland and Salisbury on the Eastern Shore should have National Guard and Army Reserve units consolidated in a single armory. Now the Defense Department believes that the manpower in the two units is sufficient to justify separate facilities.

Can Complete Plans

Major General Milton A. Reckord, the state's adjutant general, now can complete the development of plans for the new National Guard Armory.

Originally the City of Cumberland proposed construction of the National Guard Armory in Constitution Park. When some objection to this proposal developed, a location in Ridgedale Addition beyond the Ridgedale Reservoir on the West Side was selected, according to Mayor Roy W. Eves.

Will Share Cost

James A. Perrin, local real estate agent, has been designated as agent for the city in the acquisition of the 109 lots needed for the armory. Mr. Perrin said that the city now has control of 95 of the needed lots or 87 per cent of the total.

Acquisition of the land is the city's only expense in the armory project. Seventy-five per cent of the construction cost will be borne by the Federal Government and the other 25 per cent by the state.

S. Russ Minter, local architect, is preparing plans for the new National Guard Armory.

Unions Reach Agreement In Equity Suit

An argument between the parties involved has ended in settlement of the equity suit filed by the Pennsylvania Central Quarry, Stripping and Construction Company against four AFL building trades union.

The agreement was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court by W. Earl Cobey, attorney for complainants, and William C. Walsh, attorney for Local 37-B, Operating Engineers; Local 453, Teamsters and Chauffeurs Union; Local 616, Laborers and Hodcarriers Union, and Local 1024, Carpenters Union.

Following the docketing of the agreement, Chief Judge George Henderson vacated the temporary restraining order entered January 31, and ordered the case dismissed.

Calvary EUB To Hold Revival Services

Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church will conduct revival services beginning tomorrow at 7:30 p. m., according to Rev. Raymond Campbell, pastor.

Rev. Campbell, who will be the speaker at the services, said they will be held each evening with the exception of Saturdays, and will end March 3. Special singing will feature the revival.

Luke Man Nabbed For Motor Violations

Charles W. Dawson, of Luke, was arrested last night by Maryland State Police at Dawson, along McMullen Highway, and will be given a hearing today for several motor vehicle violations including a reported hit and run violation which took place on Greene Street.

A local resident notified City Police that his car was hit by a passing motorist who proceeded up Greene Street. Information given to local police was passed on to the state police who nabbed Dawson. Tfc. D. A. Tucker made the arrest and took Dawson to the City Jail.

Deaths

Cuff, Miss Ella, 91, Westernport.

Getson, Mrs. Charles, Powhatan, Ohio.

Hanawalt, Charles W., 65, of 874 Maryland Avenue.
